Trafficking in persons is not a new phenomena. It is a modern day form of slavery and one of the most lucrative criminal enterprises in today's world economy. In 2002, the United Nations reported that the human trafficking problem is immense, and that an estimated 4 million persons per year are trafficked for forced labor purposes around the globe. The Department of State estimated in 1997 that 45,000 - 50,000 women and children, and an unknown number of men, are trafficked into the United States annually. Frank E. Loy, Under Secretary of State for Global Affairs, believes this number began growing in the early 1990's and that the trend is only increasing.
